OLDEST PHYSICIAN IN HALIFAX DEAD

Dr. Alex Trent Clark Passes Away After Several Months' Illness.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)
SOUTH BOSTON, VA., Sept. 12.—Dr. Alex Trent Clark, the oldest physician in Halifax county, died at his home Saturday night after several months' illness, aged sixty-two years. He had been practicing medicine in this county for about thirty years. He was a native of Charles City county, and was a graduate of the Virginia Medical College. He had a large practice, and was well known throughout the county. Dr. Clark was one of the many years chairman of the Board of Health for Halifax county, and at one time member of the State Board of Examiners.

He was a prominent Odd-Fellow and a member of the Methodist Episcopal Church of the place. Dr. Clark was twice married. His first wife was Miss Mattie Glover Crocker, of Isle of Wight county, and his second wife was Miss Carrie Snyder, the daughter of C. S. Snyder, Esq., of this county, who survives him, together with eight children. The funeral took place from the Methodist Episcopal Church Sunday afternoon, and the interment was made at Oakridge Cemetery. He was buried with honors of the order of Odd-Fellows.

Runaway Accident.
A runaway occurred at Madison and Main Streets yesterday morning, and as a result John Bagby, colored, had one or two ribs and his wrist broken. Bagby was working in the ditch, into which the frightened horse fell. Dr. Leonard, of the City Hospital, was on hand to care for the man.

The October Delineator is an engrossing number. Beethoven and his "Immortal Beloved" is an interesting paper, the first in a series on "The Loves of Great Composers," and the series on "Pioneer Women" is brought to a close with the story of Mary Dunlevy. Field Hockey for girls is the subject of an article by Christine Terhune Herrick, which is strikingly illustrated. Richard Le Gallienne, Ellen Douglas Deland and Ethel Watts Mumford are contributors of fiction, and there is some excellent verse. For young people there are entertaining pastimes, and the fashions and other interests of women are adequately represented.

THIS IS YOUR DAY.
September 22 is Virginia Day at the St. Louis Exposition. It is the day of days for Virginians. Rev. Herbert M. Hope will run a personally conducted excursion on September 20th. He will be glad to make arrangements for those who will use Pullmans as well as for those who will use day coaches. The excursion will be via the scenic Chesapeake and Potomac rivers, and the best route. His coach will be attached to train No. 6 at Richmond. Parties from Norfolk will take the car there and other points on the line will take this coach at the station from which they embark. You will save money and time by going with him. For particulars write Rev. Herbert M. Hope, Room 36, Merchants National Bank building, Richmond, Va.

ALLAN, JR., IS NAMED

The Williams faction of the Republican party of the Third Congressional District yesterday perpetrated the force of again doing just what the State Executive Committee recently undid—that is to say, it held a so-called convention and again nominated Mr. Edgar Allan, a young attorney of this city, for Congress. The result was attained without opposition so far as the men participating in the convention are concerned. Mr. Allan was "hit" from the inception of the movement to nominate by this faction.

It is the old, old factional fight which has for years prevented every effort to organize a formidable Republican party in the district, and which is now, in the opinion of the thoughtful men of the party, delaying for years anything like a formidable Republican organization in this district.

SLASHED HER WITH RAZOR

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)
PETERSBURG, VA., Sept. 12.—John Warrenton attempted to murder his wife here early this morning by cutting her with a razor, inflicting a ghastly wound in the back of the neck, also cutting her face and hands. The wound in the neck extends almost from ear to ear, the blade of the razor touching the spinal column and the victim now lies in a comatose condition, but with some chance for recovery. Warrenton surrendered himself to the authorities at the jail, where he is now held without bail to await the result of his wife's condition. He is about thirty-five years of age, and a painter by trade. His wife is about twenty years old and made quite a lengthy ante-mortem statement, which is signed "Annie T. Chapman," and describes her difficulty with her husband and his attack upon her. She states that she was compelled to leave him several weeks ago, and this morning, while on her way to Washington Street and accompanied for a long distance, during which time they quarreled and he attacked her with a razor. The woman's condition is reported as slightly better.

IN MEMORIAM.
Amid the toils and cares of life, amid our joys and sorrows, we are oftentimes called upon to part with those more or less dear to us. We are called upon to give up what we most dearly love on earth to part forever with those most dear and dear to us, to feel for the time being as though a kind providence had visited a sore of affliction on us, but rarely before has it fallen to our lot to chronicle a sadder or more heartrending affair than the late demise of our dear friend and associate, HORACE B. KIRKWOOD, who was so suddenly summoned to his home.

Words are wholly inadequate to convey our feelings or express our deep sorrow and distress. To us he was a friend in all that the word implied, and he was a numerous ally attending to this fact. Like a rose in full bloom and life, spreading its sweetness of perfume and beauty and moved down by a blow, thus our friend in his path cheerfulness, happiness, contentment and the love good will, respect and confidence of his fellow-men, was almost without a warning suddenly taken from us and the world.

The good thing that we know and loved him, should be a source of consolation to his bereaved family in the knowledge that as he lived so he died, loved and mourned by all.

We would in vain attempt to offer consolation to his dear ones, our hearts ache with theirs, their sorrows are alike ours; we can but mingle our love with theirs and leave them now with the "One on high," who alone can our sorrows heal; who alone can all things for our good bring forth and who takes away from us, Blessed be He.

with the battery during the manoeuvres at Manassas. He was reported yesterday as doing nicely. Sergeant Cowardin was probably one of the few, if not the only enlisted man, participating in the manoeuvres who was a Civil war veteran and fought in both battles of Manassas without a scratch during these engagements.
